NOTES

This tabulation is intended to include all corporate and non-corporate entities receiving authorization to provide service within a community, with the exception of two categories. First, undocketed “fringe” customer approvals as discussed below have been largely excluded. Second, “shell” companies created for the sole purpose of effecting mergers (such as the formation of Acquisition Gas Company in 1999 to effect the acquisition of Bay State Gas Company by NIPSCO) have been excluded. For a listing of those companies, refer to “Flow-Chart Depicting Corporate History of Gas and Electric Utilities in Commonwealth of Massachusetts.”

Since 1908, mergers have required prior approval of Commission (St.1908, c. 549). Since 1910, Commission approval required to allow utilities to expand into communities not included in articles of incorporation (St.1910, c. 197).

For municipal systems created pursuant to Ch. 370, Acts of 1891, et seq., date given is the date of second vote required by statute.

* Denotes date of initial operations for non-incorporated entities

FRINGE CUSTOMERS

Although utility service areas are, in large part, based on municipal boundaries, many exceptions to this general practice exist. In some communities, two utilities can be found providing service to distinct geographic sections of the community. This practice resulted from either historical conditions, where a town served by one company was later annexed by a community served by a different company (NStar Gas serving the Hyde Park section of Boston), or economic reasons where a company only chose to extend its lines into part of a town, permitting a second company to enter the remaining portion of the town (Bellingham’s division between Bay State Gas and Blackstone Gas). On occasion, a division of a community was sanctioned by legislative act, as in the case of Charlestown Gas Company’s expansion into Medford (already authorized to be served by Malden and Melrose Gas Light Company) pursuant to St.1860, c. 66 (3/13/1860). Examples of these types of divided gas service territories include Bellingham, Boston’s Hyde Park section, Mendon and Somerville.

Even where there is only one company considered to be the primary utility in a particular community, there are a number of situations where a physical barrier, such as a highway, exists, or where the incumbent utility considered it to be too costly to provide service to a particular area within the community. In those cases, the marginal or remote areas were broken off from the incumbent utility to be served by a neighboring company. See, for example, Worcester Gas Light Company, DPU 1973 (7/24/1925) (the Cherry Valley section of Leicester); Dedham and Hyde Park Gas Company, DPU 9751 (12/31/1951) (a house in Milton); Boston Gas Company, DPU 13818 and Worcester Gas Light Company, DPU 13819 (3/14/1962) (resetting the boundary in Natick and Wayland along the Massachusetts Turnpike); Fitchburg Gas and Electric Light Company, DPU 15265 (7/13/1966) (a section of Lunenburg); Colonial Gas Company/NSTAR Gas Company, D.P.U. 02-44 (2002) (a reversion of a section of Plymouth back to NStar Gas) This reference work includes all docketed border revision proceedings, and in most instances identifies the general area involved.

Less formal arrangements also exist to deal with these situations. A utility serving a particular community may find that extending service to an area of the community would be more costly than it would for a neighboring company whose mains are closer to provide service to those customers. Therefore, customers who lived in one service territory could be served by a neighboring company, based on a mutual arrangement between the two companies that could be terminated by one of the parties. Bay State Gas Company’s 1991 arrangement with Commonwealth Gas Company concerning service in the Town of Dover is a good example). In most cases, the creation of “fringe customers” did not require any affirmative Department involvement. A review of utility company annual returns over time suggests that many of these “fringe customer” arrangements were limited in number of customers (as few as one customer could be affected) and intended to remain in place only until a time that the incumbent utility was able to extend service to the area. D.P.U. 02-44, cited above, would be such an example. Additionally, mergers and consolidations have served to reduce the total number of fringe customers over time. This reference work identifies the presence of fringe customers in both the present and near-past, but a comprehensive listing of all fringe customers at all points of time is beyond the scope of this document.
